Sacred cable to be installed really soon

BY SHTAMPY SIZZLER
SQUEAKY CLEAN

University officials said cable will be installed in GW's residence halls this summer.

"Yeah, basically we got our heads out of our asses," Dorm Hall Resident David Foggy said.

Students will get their MTV, Playboy Channel and TBS this year. "We've compiled enough cables together that we only have to pay for one signal for the whole campus," LeNueman Weak said.

We will no longer produce T-shirts with pictures of cable boxes on them, Vice President for Drinking and Fake ID Support Services Bobby "Wicked" Chernak said.

We love all students, Paul "Rollerblade" Bark-it said. "They used to whine, but now they're like, really cool," he said.

In related news, administrators also re-installed the signals from CBS, ABC and NBC. Shoeshine Lohnstein will return to campus this fall.

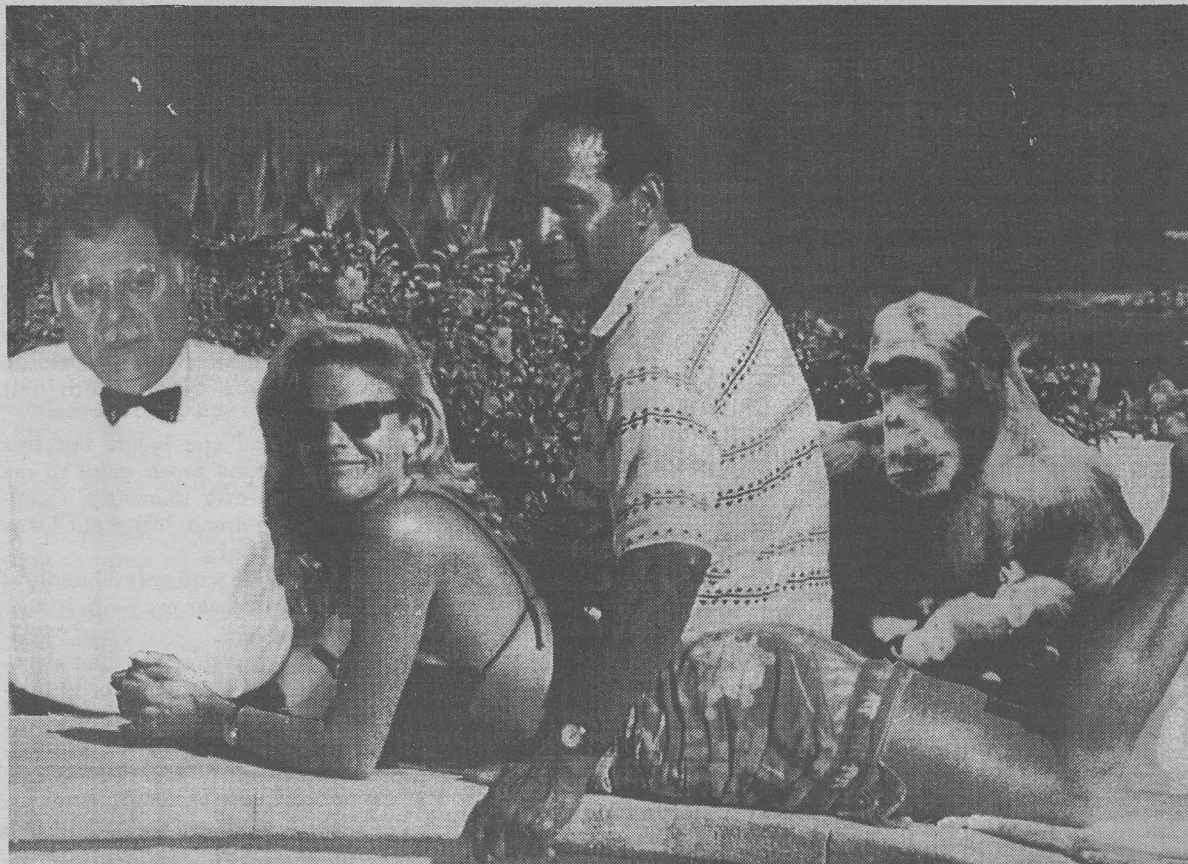

To complete the technological transition, WETA will also move in behind the 2000 Penn complex. Yeah, we want to radiate the city and keep the killer bees away, too.

In a statement, GW President in tights, Stiffin Joel Trachtengerg said: "Students should have the chance, um to watch Beavis, Butthead and the Psychic Friends Network, instead of watching me run naked across a field of lilies over and over again."

Plans to connect each student cybernetically to SJT also will be completed. "We have the best technology in the District," he said, adding that the law school students would not file their class-action suit against the University protesting the distribution of channels between the undergraduates and law school students.

Other plans include broadcasting the video tapes from the hall monitors in Thrustin and to splice in different male freshman for the starring role of John Wayne Bobbitt Uncut.

Pal Ark called the decision "fabulous."

GDub prez linked to Simpson; movie deal makes us queasy

GOIN' OUT WITH A BANG

California District Judge Schwance Libito declared a mistrial Saturday in the now infamous Homer Simpson double murder trial. Defense attorney Jonny Cockhead introduced evidence linking GW President Stiv Jø Trakkenbürk with the bloody glove found at the Nicole Marge Simpson estate. A horny Judge Libito promptly threw out the case.

"This is an outrage," an outraged Trakkenbürk spat at reporters as he was led out of the courthouse in handcuffs. "I was on a plane to Chicago to stroke some alumni! Don't you know who I am?"

Simpson immediately left the courthouse after he was acquitted, dashing through the mob of well-wishers in a dazzling display of footwork reminiscent of the all-star's career with the Buffalo Batches.

Prosecutor Marsha Cluck, decked out in a lovely blue chiffon number with lace trim, was visibly irritated by Libito's verdict. "Are you trying to tell me that fat piece

Jennifer Weehauken keeps her apartment spotless, but it does not keep LeNorman Weak away.

Weehauken, a graduate student, hired her own exterminator in addition to those hired by the company that manages The Shithole, a GeeUU owned apartment building on Huh Street. But Weak was back hours after the exterminators left.

Sunday morning, Weehauken was rushed to the GW Medihell Center emergency room in an ambulance because while she was asleep in her third-floor apartment, Weak crawled into her ear and pushed against her eardrum.

"I felt something on my ear ... a grinding in my eardrum," she said. She said she woke up "screaming in hysteria."

Weehauken, a full time student in the 43rd ranked School of Electrocution in Public Managerial Resources and Relations and Studies, was treated at the GW Hospice where the doctor flushed the still-living official out of her ear and on to the ground. The doctor then tried to squash him with his shoe. Weak crawled away.

The only advice the doctor could give her was to try sleeping with "Saran Wrap covering your ears," according to medical reports.

When asked about the incident, Weak began to babble incoherently. (See DOCTOR, p. 17)

Cable installation unlikely next year

BY TWISTED SISTER
MANAGING BADLY

GW administrators said cable will not be a reality in the residence halls next year.

"Yeah, basically we have had our heads up our asses," said LeNueman Weak, executive freak of campus speak.

Despite rumors that students would have their MTV this year, they couldn't get enough cables together to split the signals so they wouldn't have to pay for it.

Students will receive T-shirts with pictures of cable boxes instead, Vice President for Drinking and Fake ID Support Services Bobby "Wicked" Chernak said.

"Oh, screw the students," Paul Barks A. Lot said in a fit of fury. "They're just a bunch of whining fools."

In related news, administrators also blocked the signals from CBS, ABC and NBC, forcing Shoshana Lohnstein to move back to Los Angeles.

"Well, just watch PBS," Ben Lather said. However, this would be impossible because WETA has gone bankrupt while waiting to move to GW's campus.

In a statement, GW Presidenture SJT said "while it is important, for um, students to watch the O.J. Simpson trial and like, Beavis and uh, Butthead, and stuff, students will now only be able to watch me dancing naked on GW TV. Heh, heh."

Plans to connect the residence hall rooms to ethernet cables also delayed the advent of cable. Yeah right, like they even know what they're talking about, SA President Pal Ark said. He also said the law students would file a class-action suit against administrators protesting the distribution of channels between the undergraduates and law school students.

Other nixed plans include broadcasting the video tapes from the hall monitors in Thrustin and to combine them with scenes from John Wayne Bobbitt Uncut.

Pal Ark called the decision "fabulous."

And another fling ...

Xuxa marries Rerun in this version o' my life

So I was skipping Tai Chi with my roommate, who's a history major, and something dawned on me (follow me here, folks): why does Schneider on "One Day at a Time" have so many keys?

I mean, the guy's NEVER opening any doors. He's supposed to be the maintenance person, but he never fixes anything. All he does is walk around in those white T-shirts, his gut hanging over his pants like the District's debt, and flirts with that mom, who looks like a reject from Mickey's Starland. If I can may quote Jerry here, I mean, hey, what's the deal? Here's a clue: he's worthless.

• Worthless also is getting up early to watch "Xuxa" and finding out it's a rerun (and by the way, folks, all I know of Xuxa is that she's a former porn star and hardly speaks English, and that's good enough for me, heh heh heh).

• Worthless is Rerun on "What's Happening" and the reruns of "What's Happening Now?" And what's up with Raj? And where was their mom? Why did Rerun get in trouble on that episode with the Doobie Brothers? Why can't I stop asking rhetorical questions? Why am I here? Why, why, why?!?!?"

Beware ye channel surfers.

Have you ever experienced déjà vu? Me and my roommate Geoffe, who once turned down a pound of pasta, have. Every time I used the expression "giant papier mâché head." It just rolls off your tongue. And I love words with accent marks and those funny triangle things.

While we're on the subject of Mr. G P. Mâché Head, tell me this: doesn't he/she get hot in there? And is George even a he? Do they use a female George for the women's basketball games in accordance with Title IX? That would make sense, but it would make even more sense if the women's mascot was Martha, not George.

Picture it: a school with two mascots, one for the men and one for the women. I'm surprised no one has thought of it. But the people who design Martha would have to do a better job than they did with George. I mean, hey, George's head is too big for his own good. It's only a matter of time before someone gets poked in the eye with that thing.

Go ahead and laugh, but this column means much more to me than you'll ever know. For example, I had a dream last night I was walking naked through FoBo with only a bundle of Hatchet's to cover my yeah. It all seemed so real.

My therapist says it had something to do with an inferiority complex, that I fear the wrath of my editor, who might one day read my column and say, perfectly seriously, "Rega, I have no idea what this means."

But, as you might have guessed, I interpreted my dream quite differently. Think about it and run with me on this one. When do most people read The Hatchet, and more specifically, my 20 inches of dribbling drabble? In class or in bed, of course. And while most people wear clothes to class, a good number of them don't wear clothes to bed.

Therefore, my image of me flaunting my system across campus, holding my stack of papers to protect my chance, actually means that people like me - they really like me. Or am I just twisting a weird dream into something it's not?

Here's a wild idea: before I sign off, I have couple of random ideas that have been lingering around in my overactive imagination. Bear with me, folks:

• A prayer: Lord, grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change and the courage to stand up to my editor when she changes the things I don't want changed, like excessive punctuation.-.)

• The word "bitch" is so much funnier when pronounced with as many syllables as possible, i.e. "bihahahahahahahahhtch."

• I is in Haaweauuuuouse! Peeeeeace to my boyz in the funny brim bent hats!

Students exchange sex for textbooks

College students are having oral sex

BY CORLEONES PIZZA
OF LARRY'S FAMOUS STEAKS
AND HOAGIES

The Association for Students and Stuff had a successful first day of a brand new program that allows students to swap used textbooks for sex. "It's fabulous," current ASS jefe of chickens, Sal Stark said about the ASS Book Sexchange program.

As the doors to Columbian Commons opened at 9 a.m., hundreds of students swamped the room, loaded down with titles ranging from "The Complete Guide to Taoism in America" to the Nov. 8 issue of ShIt Magazine. Sweatlana EatPurina and Sashay Cool checked IDs at the door, to make sure participants were Spring 1995 GeeDubU students. Vice President for Students and Stuff and Not Much Else Rubarb Cornhack, visiting professor John Wayne Jimmy Dean Lob-it and Sen. Bob Packsabigwood were among those turned away.

Students got sexual favors ranging from heavy petting for lab manuals to S&M with whips and chains for all 26 books required for Environmental Studies 152.

"Boy I'm glad I took that class," one freaky student said.

The majority of the students present as the doors opened were residents of Thrusting Hall. "This is great," freshman Ima Studd said. "I heard that Playtoy magazine called our dorm the fourth most sexually active in the country back in 1984, but I never knew I would actually use my books from English 71. My parents will be so proud."

Students were happy about the sexchange. "They just saved me $30," one student, who wished to remain nameless, gushed ecstatically.

Some graduate students said they wished there was more selection.

R. Smut Sniff-ya, ASS executive vice asshole in charge of sucking up to administrators, worked the sexchange all day, along with ASS School of Education and Xeniology undergraduate at large senator and condom dispenser Betsy-Wetsy Striped Bass.

"It's a hard job, but someone's got to do it," Sniff-ya said between exchanges.

Stark Reynolds Wrap, no relation to the current first man, said he hopes the sexchange is successful enough to get him elected to the position of ASS almighty creator and ruler over all GeeDub and stuff.

In a totally unrelated sidebar, the American Social Health Association released a study noting that 94.23 percent of all college women surveyed on a small farm in Iowa don't use condoms when giving oral sex.

Jackass Street cuts prices; students still bitch

Jackass Street administrators announced they are cutting prices again on "selected items," Dining Services four-star general Gigi Cushionman said. He decided to slash prices in order "to make all of those bitching students shut up."

Cushionman said the price of a bowl of beef paste at "Montezuma's Tex-Mex Barbecue from Hell" has been lowered from $57 to $39.95. Likewise, a plate of broccoli at "Panda Rice" will be cut from $230.95 to $45.21.

Further remarkable bargains can be expected on breadsticks at the "Italian Eatery of Death" and pickled eggs at "The 1812 Overture Deli," Cushionman lamented.

"This is so, so, so damn fabulous," Student Asswipe Presidente Alfredo Parkinson's Disease excitedly moaned. "I just love that beef paste, I can't get enough of it!"

However, to compensate for the price cuts on "selected items," the cost of a cup of Iced Italian Decaffeinated Swiss Mocha Irish Cream Cherry Twist Coffee at Veni, Vidi, Vici Java will increase from $47.50 per cup to $87,965.98.

School daze

We're sick and tired of all the bad things that happen here at GW. In this past year we have tried to address each and every problem at this University, but far too often our cries go unheard. Therefore, The GW Hatchet presents the administration our Six Theses. If we're lucky, this editorial will mark the next great schism:

- It's high time the men's basketball team recruits some more American citizens. It's great to be the "international" team, but what about talent on this continent? Jarvis and the man have been sticking it to us Americans for too long.
- The drinking age in this city is too damned high. Age discrimination goes both ways, and our underclassmen deserve the same rights as everyone else on this campus. Mayor Barry, please lower the drinking age to 12.
- Along those lines, perhaps ServiceMaster should take a lesson from its T.G.I. Friday's snafu. We liked the convenience of the restaurant, but we hated the food and the service. Put Mr. Henry's on points - Rocky and us thirsty minors will be tickled pink.
- Let's stop wasting valuable space - turn the Quad into a petting zoo. GW has a growing School of Agriculture - a mini-farm could teach and it would be fun for the kiddies, too.
- Five words: not enough of the monkey.
- There must be more pornos on campus. The Bobbitt spectacle was a good start, but students demand smut, and smut they should get.

We don't ask for much, just what we deserve.

School daze

Some say multi-culturalism is just a big hoax. However, it is not so simple. Everyone needs to make a genuine effort to live and work together and to respect each other's unique ethnic qualities. Therefore, we offer this one simple sentence, in as many languages we can think of, to promote unity at GW: For Christ's sake, can't we all just get along?

English: For Christ's sake, can't we all just just get along?

Spanish: Jesús, ¿por qué es que no nos podemos llevar bien? Tú mamá es una perro.

French: Frappez-moi comme une vielle, coucheau chaussure.

Italian: La tua mamma é una putana!

Croatian: Jebenti pickac.

Turkish: Has siktir orros poo juju.

Latin: I ad hades, sturcus caput sturcorum.

Arabic: لا يمكن شربنا وزرناح

Pig Latin: Orfay Isteray's akesay, antcay eeway allay ustjay etgay longay?

Yiddish: Oy vey, you fahkahkta mishuganas! Cocky mun!

Japanese: Anatawa ooki beeba ga aru yo.

Jive: Yo biatch, I'm gonna put a cap in yo ass, so step off. Lay em down and slack 'em jack 'em. Sheeeyat.

ONIONS

Provoking your mom...

I tell ya: Colonials threw the season

Andrew Barcelone

ATLANTIC NINE TOURNAMENT, PHILADELPHIA, MARCH 5 – I figured it out. I now understand why I am on the bus back to the Potomac Projects instead of enjoying a greasy cheesesteak and the big GW win over Rutgers. It's simple if you think about it – the players threw the game.

Before Ono Moses hangs me in effigy, let me to explain (yes, Ono, I saw you hit that three-pointer and I'm very proud of you). How does a team comprised of under-talented guys who spend a bit to much time at Schmodd's make money after a lackluster college basketball career? Aside from Yomama Evans and Belarus' little sweetheart Sashé Coolio, the NBA is just a hoop dream for the rest of the Smith Center benchwarmers. And Archduke Franz Ferdinand Williams' Big and Tall Store for Men might not him into a millionaire as soon as he had hoped. So why not act like the pros, then? Do as Pete Rose did – bet on your own games.

It makes perfect sense. Say the Colonials put money on themselves before the season to beat Syracuse, UMass twice, but to lose to Richmond, St. Bonnies and Rutgers twice. With those crazy odds, they'd be loaded after the payoff. No one expected the season to go that way, especially the bookies. It's not a coincidence that the Colonials played like the Bulls one day and like my high school team the next.

What, you don't believe my theory? OK, I have another one. Our players show up to the games drunk, hungover or wacked out on goofballs. That explains their periodically lazy and erratic on-the-court behavior. And when they played the Greatest Game of All Time (wasn't that Superbowl XVI, or something?) half the team was shooting 'roids and the other half was pumped full of fish tranquilizers. I don't make this stuff up.

I have one more theory as to why our team sucks, and this one may come as a surprise to you. Of course, Sashé Coolio has a heart of gold and has only served to help the team since Yinky Sade (pronounced Shar-day) found tremendous success with the Nets. Coolio's partner, however, has less than benevolent motives. Andrei Smirnov isn't just some Russian lackey here to keep Coolio happy and tutor him in fine hair-care techniques. No, Smirnov isn't even a basketball player at all (which is evident if you've ever seen him play). Smirnov, or Agent XXX if you will, is GW's newest member of the Russian Mafia. A turncoat from the KGB, Smirnov, who's actually 57 but uses a lot of Retin-A, is here to make sure the Colonial's wins and losses can be converted into a quick ruble. He forces Coolio, against his will of course, to foul out every so often so GW loses a game in those crucial final minutes. This isn't funny – apparently Smirnov has attached a cattle prod under Coolio's baggy shorts and isn't afraid to use it if things aren't going according to plans.

Yes, fans, the awful truth comes out. Anyway you slice it, something is rotten in the state of Denmark (or Belarus, as it were). It's no accident that the bubble (and Mick Jarhead's ego) popped and sent the Colonials to lose in the first round of the Not Important Tournament.

You see, the season was decided before it even began, and the loyal fans were just pawns in the basketball game of life. But don't get too discouraged, Dog Pounders, there's always next year (and more cool, yellow XXL shirts). I have faith that the moral turpitude of up and coming players like the Duke of Hazzard and Seco Camara (that's his real name and it's funny enough) will pull this program up by its bootstraps and erase the biggest sports scandal since the Chicago "Black Sox" threw the World Series.

UPD finds 'a whole lot of shit' on two flunkies

BY DAWNA BRUTESHLOSKY
DOLORES' HONEY BUNNY

University Police reported last week that it has cracked one of the biggest fake ID rings in GeeDubbya history.

The culprits were Lindee McDonnals, 240, and Snot Bore-Me, 5, two high-ranking Office of Campus Crap flunkies.

Doo-pee-dee gumshoes found what Chief Delirious Staffy called "a whole lotta pot" as well as about 47 million fake IDs in both Bore-Me's Gutridgie Hall room and McDonnals' desk inside the Dean o' Slobs Office.

In a startling development, Staffy also disclosed that Gee Dub Head Monkey Stevie "I'm Not Marrying Whoopi" Tractorbutt was a major customer of the ring, which sold IDs, leather restraints and Cool Whip to people in at least five states and Guam.

"This doesn't look very good for our multi-million dollar corporation, which does a little education on the side," Tractorbooty admitted when cornered in a Minute Rice Hall elevator. "But I'm not going to be compromised by a big ol' bong full of the good stuff. I did everything but beat on them with sticks to keep Lindy and Snot away."

The idiots behind the scheme were caught after a high-speed chase through the Marv Albert Center. Doo-pee-dooers backed a skateboard ridding' McDonnals into a corner, at which time she pulled a screwdriver and screamed, "Those damn freshmen can live on the Mall for all I care! I just want to be left alone!"

Bore-me, meanwhile, had escaped and was setting fire to a DeLorean behind Gutridgie Hall. Staffy said it was suspected that Bore-me was trying to hide evidence, including 47 million copies of the Dishonored Code.

Bore-me was finally caught after Doo-bee-doo officers spotted him huffing and puffing his way down Gee Street. The pigs tackled him and proceeded to confiscate 47 million palmcards reading "R. Scooter Slicky is really a tall, red-headed woman" from Bore-me's enormous pockets.

"I'm so sorry," Bore-me blubbed during questioning at Doo-pee-dee headquarters. "I just wanted to make Gee Dub an easier place to get wasted."

Staffy said the case has been referred to Judgmental Affairs. "I suspect these two will get the book thrown at them, but of course that's all off the record."

Northwestern
Summer Session '95

Made in the shade.

It's not always possible to do everything you'd like to do. Too many interests, too few hours in the day, too few weeks in the term. Fortunately, Northwestern's Summer Session gives you a chance to catch up, or get ahead of the game. You can earn a full year's credit in chemistry, physics, or a language in eight or nine weeks. After a summer at Northwestern you'll have it made—in the shade.

Noteworthy in '95: Field schools in archaeology, environmental studies, ethnography, and urban studies and a six-week program in Prague.

For more information, please call

MickGooberne possessed by Satan; wreaks havoc

Jorge MickGooberne, who did something important like running for president or something a long, long time ago, was possessed by Satan Thursday.

While giving a long-winded and absolutely pointless speech on something no one was even paying attention to, MickGooberne's body suddenly spasmed three times, his eyes turned yellow and he began vomiting green slime as Satan apparently took over his body.

He then moaned, "Death to all Republicans, I am Satan." Some of the astonished Coll-wedgie Demicraps, who had gathered to hear the political science guru speak and do the hula, applauded the outburst and bowed down to him. Others ran from the room screaming bloody murder. Ten students were injured in the stampede, which some compared to the hoopla that followed the croquet team's improbable victory over UMass in February.

MickGooberne has since formed a cult of disgruntled Compact Discs who call themselves MickGoobernicks. Several of the members have stated that the mission of their group is to "wreak havoc and mayhem" on the lives of all GeeeDubb administrators and get prices at J Street lowered.

MickGooberne formerly was a visiting GeeeDubb professor of philosophical science before he became possessed by the leader of the Dark side. GeeeDubb El Presidente Stefano Julio Tackyburgh relayed that MickGooberne will "probably have to step down from his position."

John Wayne to teach at good old Gee Dub soon, really soon

BY GERALDINE MANGONE

WANTS TO BE A TALL BLONDE

Students who did not get enough of John Wayne Jimmy Dean Bob-it in February will have the chance to learn something they may never have learned before.

Bobbitt, who graduated from East Bumfug Technical High School with a 0.4 GPA in 1988, will be the recipient of the prestigious Shapiro award for the 1995-96 school year. Bobbitt will teach a graduate level course in the fall, titled Microsurgery In Penile Replacement, and an undergraduate class in the spring, How To Handle a Woman.

"This is an honor I'll remember as long as a can," Bobbitt purred from Las Vegas between orgies. Bobbitt, a self-made entrepreneur, now charges people $1 to look at his formerly dismembered pal.

Bobbitt entered the national spotlight this year when his film was shown by the We-don't-run-any-real-programs Board, and 9 million reporters and six students showed up to see it.

Bobbitt announced that he looked forward to visiting the nation's capital, because, even though he lived in Manassas, Va., he never made it into the city.

"I heard that 14th Street is a happening place," he crooned, adding that he anticipates meeting "plenty of co-eds" at GeeDoubleU.

"I think having Bobbitt here is fabulous," ASS president Loan Shark exclaimed.

But some students don't agree.

"This is an outrage," Dick Pretendo, dictator of the American College Future Nazis, cried. "If we're going to have porn stars teach here, we might as well find some who can act."

Woumahns Issuez Later submitted a jointly written statement for publication: "We do not tolerate John Wayne Jimmy Dean Lob-it. In fact, we don't tolerate anything masculine of any kind at any time."

The two remaining members of the College Republican united with the members of the College Apatheticrats for the second time this year to protest the professorship. They held a rally, but no one showed up.

Star witness hides out in VP's guest house

BY ELMIRA Q. BUNDERCHUCK
GOIN' TO THE JOHN

The star witness in the O.J.
Simpson trial in California has moved to Washington to avoid the heaps of publicity he has received.

Sources too close to Brain "Kato" Kaelin confirmed that the Oscar-winning actor has moved into the guest house of Rod "Loco" Frenchkiss, GW vice president of all things acadæmic.

Frenchdressing and Kaelin have known each other for 22 years. "We became close when sporting a goatee was a fashion statement and not just a sign of intelligence," Frenchfries said.

"After getting in so many fights
on the basketball courts in West Philly, my mom just wanted me to move in with my rich uncle," Kaelin told this reporter.

To prepare for Kato's visit,
Frenchbread cleaned out the guest house, which was filled with leather-bound novels, a trampoline and an untapped keg of Chaucer Pale Ale.

"I just hope he doesn't soil my Elizabethan Era leather couch," he blabbered.

A tour of the guest home revealed a three-bedroom apartment with green shag carpets, red velvet wallpaper and a waterbed.

"That place is a perfect getaway," says Phillip Snobheimer, an expert on guest houses at the Brookings Institution in Washington. "Kato will fit into that loving environment."

It's party time at Gel-mon!!!

Yinka Dare to star in new TV sitcom; my grandma is a lush

BY JUST IN TIME FOR BURGERS, MON
LARRY'S FAMOUS STEAKS, HOAGIES

Due to a high number of student complaints following the decision to ban smoking in Melvin Walter Norman Charles Robert Gel-mon Library last month, Head Librarian Jackie Kennedy Onassis Cigaretins announced Thursday that the library will open a club in the 24-hour reading room.

Cigaretins said the club, to be named "Melvin Gel-mon Library ... After Hours," will be modeled after the club in the Peachy Armpit on the hit television show "Schmeverly 'We're all still in college but we're all over 30' Heels 90210-7805." By day the room will be a study lounge, but by night it will transform into a state-of-the-art, strobe-lit, rave party machine.

"It'll be one kickin' mothafucka," Cigaretins beamed as he reviewed the architects' plans to include a full wet bar where the circulation desk now is and a wall-to-wall speaker system by the elevators.

"We're gonna kick Tracks' ass."

Cigaretins said the library is considering knocking out the entire reference section to make room for a larger dance floor. He added that he is also considering removing the Aladin computers and constructing a beach volleyball court. Plans are also in the works for a ganja room in the Copy Center.

Regarding the potential damage to books that prompted the ban on smoking last month, Cigaretins replied, "Books, shmooks, who are we kidding ... Kids only come to Gel-mon for one thing anyway - to par-tay!"

Cigaretins said the After Hours Club would open each night at 10 p.m., despite the fact the rest of the library is open until midnight. He added that the "thumping bass" from the club would be enough to drive away the "lame-asses who actually come to the library to study."

GheeDhubWhew President Stefanie Joelle Traeschtenbourgh

said he thought the idea of having a club at Gel-mon would "do wonders for our US Snooze and Worms Report ranking."

"Uh, hummph ... No other ... err ... excuse me ... school in our ... um ... basket case will have an ... hurumphumph (throat clearing sound) ... After Hours Club at their ... uh ... um ... library," Traeschtenbourgh said, rather unintelligibly as he fussed with his hair and face.

Cigaretins said the club is scheduled to open sometime in the next decade, as soon as it asks Satan's Grand Master of All Being over Foggy Bottom (formerly known as the Advisory Neighborhood Commission) for permission.

SJT's schlong goes under the knife at Smut Center show

BY HOWIE FELTERSNOTCH
FORESKIN EXPERT

More than 6,000 hot 'n' sweaty Hebrewphiles jammed into the Smut Center Saturday in moist and erect anticipation of the world premiere of Stephen Joel Trachtenbobbitt: Uncircumcised.

The event, however, failed to live up to expectation, as all but four members of the audience left to throw up in the bushes after one look at Tractivebung's schlong.

"I just wanted to see if it worked," said freshman Babette Fillmicrevice. "Once I saw China, I wanted to get the hell out of there and hose myself down." Vice President for Figurehead-type Stuff Booby Churnuk was puzzled by his boss's foray into motion pictures.

"I understand how they can take all that skin off, but how do they put it back on?" wondered T-Rex's former right-hand man, who had just rented out the entire campus for a week to celebrate his son's bris.

"I think he's a sellout. He wants to forget where he comes from. Foreskin, no foreskin, can't we all just get along? Under all that skin, we're all just a bunch of dicks."

Trachtenbucks, however, was unfazed. "I feel like a goy again!" he exulted. "I tell you, I think this is some of my best work. I'm selling Polaroids for a buck. Want one?"

Filmed in a garage in Falls Church, Va., over two days, Trachtenbobbitt: Uncircumcised follows the true life struggles of one man coming to terms with his excess. Trachtenberg, who insisted that the film is not autobiographical, nonetheless related to the plot.

"I was very moved by the story," he said. "A man who is Jewish but bears the mark of a gentile, until his jealous wife gives him a home-made bris, which causes horrible scarring. Isn't that poignant? Plus, I got to, you know, get to know some honies in the Biblical sense."

Trachtenberg decided to perform the life-threatening surgery and enter into the smoky world of 'nog flicks after a below-average pay raise of $74,000 endangered his attempt to buy Bolivia. "I figure I could get the surgery, make a few movies, dance in a couple of booths and whammo! I'm livin' the good life in La Paz."

According to Medical Center head (insert name here), the operation took 14 hours and "a helluva a lot of Scotch tape." In an unrelated story, two doctors at the medical center were forced to resign after cloning the operation's results. "I don't know why they wanted more than one of those ugly little devils," spokesman Ruthless "King Hussein of" Jordan said. The specimens were kept by the University, however, to use as party favors.

The showing of the film is the culmination of a controversial battle between the Pomegranate Board and several student groups over whether the University should allow the showing of a fat hairy man getting laid.

"This is just disgusting," Frightening College Conservatives president Slick Progresso LXXVIII moaned. "Our group is for naked women. Who stay at home. And cook and clean for me."

Whimmmenzz Ishyoos Nau members also admitted to being "really pissed off," which is nothing new. They passed the time by protesting outside Smut Center, making up catchy chants like "His skin is his sin!" and "¡Viva la vulva!"

Those few students that stayed, however, were not disappointed.

"I thought it was just fabulous," Student Association president Ol' Pork said. "He's fabulous. His wang is fabulous. Excuse me, but I have to go be alone in a dark, quiet place for a while."

Blowcase STUFF THAT SUCKS Ukrainian yodelers

April 19 at Loser Auditorium. 8 p.m. World renowned yodeler Yaust Kristenhoffershtubenhauberstein will join Tibetan sherpa dancer Trepak Tufong in a spectacular world premier performance in which they pay tribute to some crap that has something to do with a new president in their home countries or something. The duo, which has toured extensively in a lot of countries the United States has bombed, don't speak a lick of English, but that's OK because you speak neither Ukrainian nor Tibetan, and you won't go anyway. Why don't you go to these wonderful events? I mean I don't go either, but I feel like I should tell you about them every fucking week because it takes up space and I've heard that culture is good and stuff. But c'mon, just go. I feel bad for these guys. Are you still reading this? Probably not. One of these days I'll mention some double secret concert by some really good band like Gwar and you'll be sorry you didn't read this, you bastards!

Zamfir, master of the skin flute.
Amelia Earhart

April 14 in your mom's house, 4 p.m. Who really gives a crap about Amelia Earhart? I sure as hell don't, and neither do you, but the point is, there's a few losers out there who actually do. Anyway, they'll be talking about how she mysteriously disappeared and exactly in what graphic manner they think she bit the big one. One guy thinks she landed in the Amazon and started a master race of enormous lesbian aviators. And if you go, you'll get to see just what type of people go to these things and you can heckle them.

Kurt Cobain is still dead Piss-poor punks redefine shitty, we review them anyway

BY THOR LEATHERWOLF

Pearl Jam played a concert here? Really? Sorry, I didn't know about it. I was like sleepin and stuff. R.E.M. came out with a new album? Oops. See like I couldn't cover it because I was watching this "Perfect Strangers" marathon.

Boy, do I love "Perfect Strangers" You know what's so funny about it? They're both related! See, one's name is Balki Bartokomus and he's from this goofy Mediterranean island called Meepos and he lives with his cousin, who's from Wisconsin and whose name is Chuck or something. And they don't know each other! HAAAAAAA! For my money, it's the best damn thing on television since "Bosom Buddies." And I should know. I watch a lot of television. I also like "Jake and the Fatman."

Anyway, I have some free time now so I'm gonna do a review on this band called Phlegmgeyser.

What is a Phlegmgeyser? Well, a geyser is a natural phenomenon which shoots really hot water out of the ground, which is pretty cool. So this leaves phlegm, which is this stuff that comes out of your throat when you have a cold, which sucks, unless you like phlegm which is cool or you like phlegm and geysers which is really cool, so you should spend some money from your pocket and buy this cool album which doesn't suck.

Their angst ridden angst adolescent angst, as is evidenced by their song titles, "Black," "Black Vomit," "Black Black," "Woe," "Ow" and "My Shoes are Ugly and So is My Soul."

Phlegmgeyser plays with a tempestuous fury that wells like a petulant firehose from the depths of their spleen. When lead singer Scuzz Monkeyspank sings, "You eat my soul/Like a hungry weasel," the listener can feel his pain.

"We think Eddie Vedder is God," said lead singer Black Moe in something plagiarized from the band's press release. "Really smart songwriters only write in monosyllables. We wrote 'Smell' for Eddie. Just listen to the lyrics: 'Ugh/Girl/Blood/Porch/Sea Monkey/Pancakes.' Eddie's deep, man. I hope that someday I can feel as bad about being successful as he does."

"We want to be like Live, only more pretentious," bassist Weimar added. "We want to be so pretentious that people who come to our shows just start screaming. And then we'll put down our coffee and moan, 'Are you in pain?' And they'll just scream. And then we'll play feedback for 40 minutes and fall asleep."

The high point is their spectacular cover of "Not Fade Away," which was originally performed by Ethel Merman and written by Dee Snider, not Tito Puente, as reported in last week's Wretch-It.

Cheap girl takes prize

If you like Baywatch, you'll love this one!BY KAREN D. RESNIK
HOTSHIT SMUT WRITER

GW junior Bambi Ann Bombas says she's seen every Miss America pageant since she was two. "I've always thought those broads were too wholesome," she says.

Bombas has proven her own formula of grace, beauty, tits and ass works, too. She came in fourth runner-up in the Young Miss Sweet-n-Sweaty North America Pageant sponsored by the Juan Canihaveaspankas Modeling Agency in March.

Contestants were judged according to poise, personal interview and cup size. The pageant does not include a talent or swimsuit competition, but contestants do have the option of performing a strip tease in front of the judges for extra points. Bombas undressed to the likes of '70s Swedish pop super-group ABBA's "Dancing Queen" while reciting Articles I-IX of the Bill of Rights.

"James Madison was my favorite founding father," she explains.

The Wyoming native says the personal interview probably hurt her chances of winning the competition. "Alan Thicke asked me how I would spread my message of love around the world should I win, but I thought he said 'spread my legs.' I answered that I wasn't sure but that I'd start with the GW baseball team," Bombas says.

Bombas credits her late grandmother with giving her the idea to enter the pageant. "She always told me that brains were important but that breasts would get me in the door," she says respectfully. Bombas also calls porn star Letha Weapons one of her idols. "Her gyrations were inspiring in John Wayne Bobbitt Uncut," she gushes.

In coming in fourth runner-up, Bombas won a free visit to an area tanning salon and a copy of model Anna Nicole Smith's book, How Silicon Made Me a Star. The $1,000 cash prize and the Frederick's of Hollywood photo shoot went to grand prize winner and 38 EEE-sized Ima Eazie of Anchorage, Alaska.

Bombas was only congenial toward the winner. "She's a sweetheart and I wish her all the best in not developing back problems in the future," she says.

Bombas says now that the pageant is over, she can fully concentrate on a major in tourism studies. "I've wanted to wear the hat of a Park Ranger ever since I lost my virginity at Yellowstone and saw how beautiful it was," she says. Bombas also works part time as a waitress at Camelot, a gentleman's club in the district.

The pageant was held at a Maryland Econo Lodge off exit 128 on the Beltway.

Smitty Center groupies Michael Paella and Bhub Chernach took the transition to manhood ceremony very seriously.

Mazel tov! GW boys become men

BY MOISHE DUGGINSKY AND
MARY ELISSABETH O'LEIBOHUE
WANNABE JEWS

"Baruch ata Adonai," Vice President for Sports Bhub Chernach chanted from the bema, set up below the scoreboard in the Smitty Center.

Basketball-shaped balloons filled the rafters, which were lined with silver and blue streamers. Fifteen Torah-shaped cakes, alight with Buddha candles, waited along the baseline. Family and friends in their Sunday's best crowded in the stands.

From the front row, Chernach's blonde wife, Lydia, brushed a tear from her cheek as she knotted the mother-of-pearl Rosary beads in her left hand.

"Hava negela. Hava negela shalom Adonai, dreidel dreidel dreidel. Oy gefilte matzo-cheroset. Rosh hashanah. Amen," Chernach chanted, his talas draped over his bony frame. (For those not familiar with the ancient and historic words of the Jews, Chernach's Torah portion roughly translates as: "Satan is my Master. I do as I am told.")

All the couple's dreams had then come true. Bhub Chernach was being bar mitzvahed.

A bar mitzvah usually occurs when a chubby Jewish boy turns 13, in which he uses the five useless years of Hebrew school to turn a buck.

Chernach and 15 other administrators at GeeDubayew spent the weekend in the Smitty Center to complete a Jewish, coming-of-age ritual. They waited years for the moon to be right and waited days for the building to be available.

Chernach, Vice President for Knowing Stuff Walt "Mitty" Quartz and Board of Distrustees Chairman Golly Gee Carrrrrr were among the men doused with holy water to complete the six-hour ceremony.

Back in the day, Chernach's family in the Bronx did not have enough money to pay for a lavish party.

"Now that I bathe in cash, I decided I could afford to rent out the building that students already pay $24,000 a year to try to use during whatever limited hours it has," Chernach said after the ceremony.

Jewish or not, this was a day of celebration, said Michael Paella, who runs the Smitty Center.

"Until this day, I've always just felt like someone's kid brother," said Paella, who beckoned a waiter for more cocktail weenies. "But now I'm a man. A Jewish man."

Hundreds of guests, including several uninvited Hotshit reporters, danced to the David Koresh Band playing such hits as "Celebration" by Kool and the Gang and "Shout" by the Withers Brothers. Chernach went wild when the band broke into a Village People medley.

"It's fun to stay at the Y-M-C-A!" he danced, almost ripping his powder blue suit.

The moment took a serious side, however, when Chernach's 13-year-old daughter, Jackée, made a speech.

"Dad, I know we've been through good times and bad times," she said, holding a glass of saki in honor of her father's good health.

The next day, as the Colonials practiced for the next game among the remnants of the party, as sacrificed chicken carcasses swung from the air conditioned breeze, forward Omomomo Moses stopped parting the defense and pondered aloud.

"I wish I was Jewish."
He said it all.

Holy bombas! Bambi Ann poses for a pic on her way to class.

Pantless drunk re-opens newly re-named hall

GW administration bigwigs, students, monkeys shamelessly join party unfit for any first lady

BY K. WOULD I LIE?

PATHOLOGICAL FIBBER

The Office of Residential Strife and personalities from the Kennedy family officially opened the new Jacqueline Smith Bouvier Kennedy Strunsky Onassis Hall in a surprise rockin' shindig Thursday.

The brouhaha began at noon with a poignant speech from GeeDubayew President Steven Daddy Trachtenbucks.

"Mrs. Kennedy was one of our distinguished alumni who for some reason always denied coming here," he noted fondly. "Now bring on the prunes." Schmooze Association Vice President with Dashed Hopes of Being President

R. Scooter Slipup followed him in hot pursuit of other wrinkly dried fruit.

The actual ribbon-cutting at the entrance of the post neo-ugly style building was interrupted by Sen. Edturd Kidney (D-Mass.) who, already three sheets to the wind, staggered right through the buff-n-blue streamers draped in front of the door.

"We don't need no stinking scissors, let the mother fucker burn," he slurred, heading for the champagne fountain set up in Resident Dominatrix Jheri-Kurl Konworthlesski's office.

Inside, Sen. Kidding kept up the party atmosphere. He raised toasts to everyone from his late sista-in-law to a housekeeper who wandered into the office looking for a broom. Later he dropped his pants and proposed to Shila Monster Curtain, director of the Office of Erecting Tents on the Quad, swooning "Shila, you have lifted the curtain from my eyes. Escape to the Palm Beach compound with me to send hate mail to Newt Gingrich, if you're into that kind of thing" before he promptly passed out.

John F. Kennedy Jr. arrived late with ludicrously large-breasted blonde pal Darryl Hannah in tow. Rainbow and chocolate shots rang out just as their motorcade, led by the YouPeeDeed bicycle division, pulled up. No one was hurt, but a cracked Univershitty Po'lice investigation has led to the arrest of Lee Harvey Oswald Jr. from the third floor of the Hellman Book Depository one block away. Oliver Stone appeared to relieve himself now that he has been provided with another conspiracy to make JFK Part Duex.

"Boys will be boys, if you're into that kind of thing" admitted Venetian Blinds, as she shielded herself in the bushes from the bullets while noshing on a tray of deviled eggs.

The entire occasion had to be kept under wraps to keep the crowds down, according to Drapery. "We didn't want hordes of freshman broads, Gorge Street employees and the Office of Financial Resistance showing up armed with extra panties to toss at John John," Curtail said.

While intertwined with Chief Housing Nitwit and Guatemalan Paolo Barkito in a game of Twister, President Tractormower called the hall opening "bitchin'."

"We should rename all the buildings and get drunk every week," he shouted above the din of Silent Association lame-turkey president Albert Parkingticket's Karaoke performance of "I Don't Want to Work, I Want To Bang On the Drums All Day" in the elevator.

Tractorbutt had to run to the bathroom with a severe case of diarrhea soon after, but did say that Shoshanna Lonstein and Yinka Dare were his next two choices for building namesakes.

Homeless frosh will do battle on TV show 'The Real Lottery'

BY VUL GARRITY AND DONUT BRUTALCAUSKI

HATCHET NOOGIE AND PANICBUTTON

The 240 GDoubleU sophomores who were left without housing during the lottery last month will soon know whether they are staying in dorms next year or will be spending the rest of eternity in an early grave.

The Office of Residenshull Strife has signed an exclusive contract with Mirimar Television that will turn the remaining poor homeless slobs into contestants on the highly-rated game show, "American Gladiators." The students will engage in fights to the death for the last 15 remaining rooms in Bitchell Hall, said ORS Assistant Director of Receding Hairlines Pool Borkette.

"It's a good way to take care of the situation, and we get a little entertainment out of it as well," said Borkette. "Besides, I don't care what happens to those little twerps. Now get the hell out of my face, you Hotshit mongrel!"

Competitions such as the Human Pinball Machine, Piano-Wire Neckties and the Urine Sample of Death will be held in the Charles E. Smut Center.

"GW students who actually have rooms will actually be able to watch their fellow classmates die bloody, horrible deaths. It'll be bigger than Miriam's Allnighter!" Borkette said.

"I think it's fabulous!" Stooze Association President H.A.L. Perk said. He then promptly opened the Pod Bay Doors.

A few idiots have problems with the idea, however.

Young Americans for FreeSome, Warmbuns Issued Now and other student groups gathered at the Cloyd What-the-Heck Marbles Center to protest for no particular reason. The Aggravated Neighbors-in-hoods Commission also filed a lawsuit.

"Our lawyers are on speed," admitted ANC Dominatrix Curmudgeon Wickedwitchofthewestend. "Nonetheless, we're going to do our best to prevent anything from getting done around here."

"Tough noogies to all of you," responded GW President and Messiah Stephone Billy Joel Trashenberg.

Tickets will go on sale at the Smut Center at 8 a.m. on Oct. 1.

SA leader reveals his true identity

BY WINDOW WATCHER
SMOKED WITH THE MAYOR

Alfred Albert Parkbench, who served the last year scandal-free as head of the Association for Students and Stuff, announced that a stand-in double had taken his place throughout his term.

The real ASS president is not, indeed, a "geeky, brown-haired guy," as ASS zookeeper-elect Stark Reynolds Wrap called him, but a 6'2" blonde haired, blue-eyed female.

Parkinglot was originally recruited by the Colonials to play for the woman's basketball team, and entered GW's Local Law Center after graduating from Frank Purdue's School of Chickens. Coach Slow McBlowin said he benched Parkingmeter until the question of his gender could be determined.

"This is a very painful step for me," said No Parking zone, "considering that I broke my leg last week."

Parkingticket emerged from the ASS office on the fourth floor of the Starvin' Marvin Center for the first time, dressed in a feather boa, stilettos and a clingy pink sheath. "I am who I am," he/she announced, adding that he chose to reveal his true identity to combat an ASS candidate Phlipa "Not-the-creep" Broth's claims that if elected, she would be the first woman president.

"We already have one," Parkedcar said. This revelation also proved that the students are smarter than the ASS insiders. During the elections, a freshman told candidate Jerk Bumsky that the ASS president was a tall blonde woman.

"He was right," an incredulous Bumsky said.

"It's fabulous to finally be my true self," Parkway told this reporter, before asking if he could borrow some lipliner.

Doctor flushes Weak out, squashes him

When asked about the incident, Weak began to babble incoherently about something.

"In addition to all that, we had people who were or were not at various meetings, and so my sense is that as the group was working together coming from different perspectives, a thought was presented and became the prevailing thought that wasn't in totally line with my thinking and where I thought we were as a result of having participated in the vice president's staff meeting at which this was discussed at that time."

This is the second time in the last month that Weak has been found inside a body cavity of a GeeUU student. He was arrested on March 13 by PooPeeDee for crawling into the nostril of another graduate student, Rita Riterhoffnewer. Riterhoffnewer suffered minor abrasions of her mucus membranes, and Weak was charged with unlawful entry.

"It seems as though we have a serious situation on our hands," said Doritos Staffturd, chief of PooPeeDee. "We're dealing with one sick individual."

THE AVERAGE AGE OF A CLINTON ADMINISTRATION ADVISER IS 19

Another ambassador speaks here. Wow.

BY MOANING LLL. HARDY
DRESSES BETTER THAN GOD

Ambassador of Antarctica I. M. Socold delivered an address on lots of stuff to the first class to have a GW senior to be employed after graduation.

Socold said that before he became an ambassador, he made an overhaul of Dying Services at GW. He said he found that Service and Masters of Deception were hiring bricklayers and truck drivers instead of chefs to work J.C. Penney's Street.

"Chinese people were making Chinese food. Mexicans made Mexican food, Italians made Italian food and GW dropouts make Foogy's Topless Diner the best place to get a burger," he said.

But he lauded S&M for making GW food "what it is today."

Socold also praised the GW student who received a B.A. in undecided and plans to get a master's and doctorate in the same field at the only school that offers undecidedness as a major, in the Columbian and Asinine School of Successful Students (CASSS).

"I knew you could do it," he said. "Those advisers don't know what they are talking about."

Socold addressed the rising crime on GW's campus, touching on several issues.

He said he was ashamed when he heard the news of the surprise drug test that lands all GW freshmen in jail. He noted the best excuse given by freshmen caught: I swear I had a stale poppy seed bagel for breakfast.

He was almost brought to tears when he spoke of Dying Services being busted for drug trafficking and busing prostitutes from one location on campus to another.

He also defended two students who made fake IDs. "They had to pay for college somehow," he shivered. "The future is in entrepreneurial studies. If you make them, don't get caught. If you get caught don't tell them about us."

Socold also covered jaywalking, which is now illegal and strongly enforced. He said that every day at least 50 students are held without bail. The students claim they were rushing to class.

"If you must, cross at the crosswalk or don't go to class," he advised.

Socold was unavailable for comments and questions after the address due to excessive sweat from his underarms.

"Nobody thinks you'll be compromised by a plate of scrambled eggs."

Al Bark will soon rule all, calls his success 'fabulous'

BY SLAMMIN JUICE
COVERS LACKEYS AND STUFF

In a bold move to streamline government, Student Abomination President Al Bark announced his plans to take over the U.S. government. In an unprecedented move, Congress unanimously passed a resolution stating, "Big Al's our man!"

With a glimmer of hope in his eyes, the soon-to-be-ousted President Billy-Bob Bubba Billiary Jefferson Clutzon said, "After Al reduced the SA, faculty and administration of GW to only himself we knew he was our man."

Bark's story is an interesting one. His doctors said the "Streamline Fever" took him by surprise early in the year. After cutting some useless positions including those held by Graham T. Kracker — senator in charge of nit-picking and another big windbag — and the rest of the SA Senate, Bark began his work on the administration.

"I kept seeing new ways to cut, cut, CUT!!! HA! HA! HA!!!!" Bark said. "I think the plan is FABULOUS! If the rest of the country doesn't like it, tough noogies!"

Inspired by Newt "Salamander" Givetotherich's Compact on America, he realized the only way for GW to run efficiently was to do it himself.

Doctors report there is no cure for the fever, but Clutzon wanted to take advantage of it before the effects wore off. Clutzon said Bark assured him that he would give the new office of all-powerful dictator for life back to Clutzon after his work is done, but, critics remain skeptic. An unidentified source revealed to this well-informed reporter that his pet salamander "Newtie" told Cartwright, "I'd be careful if I were you."

However, Bark may have some problems.

It was announced way too late last night that the Association for Students and Stuff presidential election winner garnered both counted votes.

"Shit," Stark Reynolds Wrap gasped.

Then Smartaleck Heartless announced that Reynolds Wrap had won the election, two votes to none.

"Fuck," Reynolds Wrap gasped in response.

The turnout for the 1995 election doubled from last year — the winner garnered two votes. This was the second year in a row that the winner received 100 percent of the vote.

Loser Scott, the candidate formerly known as Scott Swika, who garnered 24,567 votes in the runoff last week, knocked out a Hotshit reporter when he heard the results.

"If I had only remembered to vote for myself," he sobbed.

"Asshole," Reynolds said in response.

And because we forgot to run it last week, this is the story about the primaries:

R. L. J. F. K. Scooter Swika garnered 67 percent of the vote in the first ASS erection held this month.

A runoff erection will be held next week between Swika and Reynolds Wrap, who was chosen by the Jay Eee Cee because he was the "best looking candidate," JayEeeSea man Alexandro "I think I'm the Great" Heartless said.

The other 12 candidates are filing a joint protest suit, sponsored by Hairy Dumbman, former vice president of absolute jack.

H. Ross Smell, who finished fifth by garnering 61 percent of the vote, said, "This is a crock. If it weren't for that damn Hotshit endorsement and their biased news coverage, pointless editorials and bad photos, I would have won."

Sashay Cool, the star basketball player, garnered 60.2 percent of the vote, despite being able to speak a word of English. "Sanks for nothing," he said through a translator, shaking his head.

As for the executive vice president who will do absolutely nothing unless the president uses a racial slur in a cabinet meeting race, John F. Kennedy Koala Bear and Ten Oxen tied by garnering 32 votes each. Zowie Rosenflap finished by garnering 31 votes, and Base Chanu got nada.

Drugs turn up missing; police look way too happy

BY JORGE "BUCCIO" MEDELLIN
AND JUAN VALDEZ
FOREIGN EXCHANGE STUDENTS FROM COLOMBIA

A lot of stuff happened last Friday night.

In the infamous Mable Nelson Thurstone Hall of Delinquents, Stoners and Drunkards Univershitty "Police" once again confiscated large sums of drugs from 532 rooms in the all-freshmen hall. Inside sources, however, claim that the Rent-a-Cops took the evidence for their own personal use.

Among the items collected were: 6,323 bongs, 32 scales, 784 viles of crack, 23,659 bags of weed and 90,438 intravenous needles. But somewhere between Thurstone and the "Police" station, about 479 hits of ecstasy and 65 tabs of acid were lost.

"We just don't know what happened to these drugs," De-Bore-Us Staph Infection, leader of the Rent-a-Cops, said. "I guess we just misplaced them ... or maybe we just dropped 'em or something."

Burn, baby, burn

The Hotshit House, 2140 G St. N.W., exploded suddenly, killing all 17 monkeys inside.

The chimps had taken over for the editorial board of the illustrious twice-weekly newspaper, What George Washington Reads. Eighty-seven groups and individuals have come forward to claim responsibility for the mishap.

The most prominent and vocal are as follows: the Kindergarten Republicans, the Office of Residential Strife, ShIt Magazine, Turkish Greek Cypriots, Rob Fabio Pringle, Ross (I am the size of the Liberty) Bell, the Joint Ecclections Committee, Pi Alpha Kappa Beta Sigma Epsilon Phi Delta Omega, assorted members of the Stupid Association and Merle Goldberg.

Several people shouted "We did it," "No, we did it!" on G Street outside the burning building, while Burk Lumsky's dog, Nixon, peed on the building in a valiant but futile effort to douse the flames. No other attempt was made to rescue the chimps, since no one knew they had taken over editorial duties.

Doo Pee Dee chief Doormats Suffered said no smoking gun has been found and the case is yet to be cracked open, but added that the crime may have been committed by DPD itself.

Beware, 'Superdorm Slacktenborg' is coming

BY ERIC A. FRANKLY

WHAT'S THE HATCHET?

The Committee to Rename Ugly Dormitories has announced its decision to call the new residence hall "Superdorm Slacktenborg."

Superdorm, at 18th and Eyeball streets, will be used for the influx of those students known as super seniors.

CRUD was also the committee with the brilliant idea to rename what is now known as Milkbone Hall to Jacqueline Beaver Kennedy Anuses Hall.

The decision came after GW President Slacktenborg released his anger at GDoubleU staff and students in a recent press interview and ego stroking.

"For all that I have done for this school, they owe it to me to do something to honor me," Slacktenborg warbled. "The least they could do is name a dorm after me, but even that won't be enough."

Many students were angry about the decision.

"Not only is Jacqueline Beaver Kennedy Anuses Hall too long to say in one breath, but Superdorm Slacktenborg?" asked one student protester in disbelief.

Slacktenborg complained the residence hall name was not enough to satisfy his ego, which recently applied for statehood. "I want complete power over the students and the school, if not the entire world. I think raising tuition again might do the trick. They need to see who is the big enchilada around here," he gushed.

Slacktenborg said he will be available on April 13 in his office during the hours of 2 p.m. to 2:02 p.m. to give out autographed photos to students.

The residence hall is slated to be constructed by September 4008, pending several dozen injunctions and lawsuits filed by the Adversarial Neighboringhoodlum Commission.

GW looks to Ohioan to save basketball; Jahvis says 'see ya'

McPatrick knows all, says all, all the time

BY WAN TRAC MYND
IRATE FAN CORRESPONDENT

THE GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY, WASHINGTON, D.C., USA — During a season in which many big name coaches in college basketball cracked under the unrelenting stress of winning games and strutting up and down the sidelines as if they were working on solving world hunger instead of the challenges of the box-and-one defense, the biggest bean in GUUU's burrito became the latest victim.

Spike Lee Jarhead the Foist, the Colonel's head coach, announced in his infuriating "I'm so cute and witty, everyone look at me" way that he would be leaving the Colonel's sideline and taking up the duties of head coach at the University of Sucking Cauliflower.

In a show of goodwill, Jahvis handed the reins of the one-time juggernaut squad to the biggest Ohioan this side of Ohio, McPatrick. "Everyone from Ohio is a" Moron. The brand spankin' new coach was elated with his new position.

"As a fifth-year sophomore, I would just like to say sank to everyone and everyone else, too," Moron said. "Except for (Associate Senior Assistant to the Senior Associates) Marijo Huana; (director-and whipping-boy-at-large of the Smiff Center) Dyke Pelter; (chief athletic supporter) Jack Kvorkian; Beary Filed (in charge of speaking into a walkie-talkie about nothing, really); and Betsy Bobbit (cut and paste directress)."

Moron said his first move will be to fire Spike Lee Jarhead Deux. He said he didn't need some washed-up coaches' son, anyway.

Kvorkian said the move to hire Moron made sense because he is on work study and the government will pay his salary as long as he is a student, which may be forever.

He added that Moron knows everything anyway, including that star guard Dukes "of" Hazzard can really launch from deep.

Moron likened the announcement to the time back in Dayton "when all that stuff happened." He added that the team can save travel money by piling all 12 big men and the 24 managers into a beat up ol' Chevy Celebrity.

"The only thing we have to fear is fear itself," he said. "And maybe a water pump."

Moron also announced that kindred spirit Slain Brawn would be the team's driver. Brawn, known for his merging techniques on the GW Parkway, has 2,345 kilometres of driving experience with the Celebrity.

"I can drive a Celebrity with celerity," Brawn drawled. "Just don't call me little bastard, all fish-belly white."

Moron said the Zebrew Crew could still travel everywhere, but they'd just have to sit in the trunk. Booger, spokesman for the Group With Way Too Much Time on its Hands, officially filed a protest with the Travel-Labor Relations Bureau today.

Moron said the best part about his new job is that he will no longer have to camp out for seats. "The last time I stayed out all night, I nearly froze my balls off," he shivered.

"Yeah," Booger added, then spat.

Many other things were accomplished at the bargaining session yesterday and tomorrow. In a press conference, Jahvis attempted to subdue his replacement using techniques he learned in the new Playboy Massage for Two video.

The balding megalomaniac

Up Yours, O'Moron! Jahvis demonstrates impeccable gentlemanly qualities toward successor McPatrick O'Moron shortly after a press melee at the Smiff Center of the Universe. Editor's note: Don't mind the blinding shine off Jarhead's dome. It obviously bothers him, too, since he's always blinking madly.

attempted to asphyxiate the slightly less burly Ohioan with a method police described as "a man-to-man defensive affront."

Moron said afterward that the devotion to man to man was Jahvis' downfall, anyway. Booger eventually broke up the brouhaha with a steady flow of mucus at both parties.

"I had to do something, and I guess I did," he sputtered.

In a related matter, Dyke Pelter simply stated in a letter to the editor of The GW Hotshit, "Pity me." Everyone ignored him. They always do.

Pelter immediately closed Smiff in an attempt to regain control. He failed. Afterward, he was seen being driven home by his mom.

Uh, coach McPatrick, aren't you supposed to, like, wait to cut down the nets until you, um, win some games or something?

Big Russian to leave for NBA

BY DEONNA WRITER
RUNNING SORE

GW men's basketball center Alexander Koul withdrew from his spring semester classes Monday to enter the 1995 NBA draft.

The 7-1 center decided not to complete his freshman year and instead made himself eligible for the June 29 draft.

Head coach Mike Jarvis announced Koul's decision at an impromptu press conference in his office Monday. Koul, who moved out of Guthridge Hall earlier that day, did not attend the press conference and was unavailable for comment.

At Monday's press conference, Jarvis said Koul's decision surprised him. Jarvis, who said he learned of the decision a week ago, said Koul would have benefited from another year under his leadership. But it is inevitable for players to leave at some point, he said.

The big Russian signed and now resides with Larry Gillman, a Connecticut-based agent who also represents New Jersey Net Yinka Dare. Gillman grew up near the Belarus Military Institute, where Koul was bred.

He told The Warshington Boast that he has known Koul since "he was just a little knish." Koul's decision to sign with Gillman makes him ineligible to return to the Colonials, unless he gets tendinitis in his ass and sits the bench a whole lot, according to NCAA rules issued from Fairtomidland, Kansas.

Koul is making the move to professional basketball to help his comrades in Borovska, Belarus, Gillman told The Boast. It has been speculated that Koul's pick in the draft could land him $23 million over four years, which could ease the financial plight of the former Soviet Union.

"We could buy a lot of wheat and vodka with that money," Boris Yeltsin said via satellite hookup.

"It helped to have him as a member of the Mutually Assured Destruction scenario," former Colonials Mark and Eric Withers said in unison.

Bill Brigham said, "Uh, yeah, what they said, dere, hey."

In a related development, Andrei Sviridov returned home to find all of his stuff on the front lawn of Guthridge. His key no longer worked in his room.

"It was great while he was here, but at least now we don't have to pay him and his little sidekick," GW President Stefano Luigi Trachtengetti said. "We could buy a lot of matzo and Manishevitz with that money," he said via satellite hookup from his royal mansion three blocks away.

There was a lot of back and forth action in the Smith Center following the announcement. Chairman of the Sports Misinformation Directorate in the Politburo Betsy Bobbit went coast to coast with the most to release the news to anxious press.

Trachtengetti, on his way to a state dinner at the Elitist Club, was not concerned that the quality of basketball would suffer without Ghou.

"To identify a single bean in a bowl of matzo and say that it's the cause of the flavor is ridiculous. GW existed before Sasha and it will exist after him. Mmm, matzo and beans."

SPORTS BRIEFS AND BOXERS

Mark this bitch

Get the hell outta my face, asshole

OK, maybe there was a lone gunman. I wasn't at the grassy knoll anyway, what do I know. Except this: no one should go to sporting events on this campus.

There is simply no reason to waste any time at sports - it's stupid.

The only people who like sports are slobbering fools with way too much free time and no sense of responsibility. Screw 'em. After all, all of us here at Georgetown are self-absorbed, self-important, anal-retentive emulators of our parents who wear ties to class and pocket protectors to Odd's, aren't we?

There's only one thing worse than athletes - idiots who go watch them waste time and energy by sweating all over a wooden floor. I can think of a 1,000 better things to do if you want to sweat on a hardwood floor.

Why do you think they built our playing surfaces so far away from campus? So you wouldn't go, obviously. RFK Auxiliary, Barcroft Park, Lambeau Field - they're all far away.

Why? Because that way, no one will waste his or her intellectual capacity chanting, "Hey! You Suck," which they probably do anyway. Then they go and hire a band and send them to Aldrich Ames, Iowa, just to get them out of the way.

Oh, and by the way, they called. You know who I'm talking about - The Commission on Games, Ratings and Relationships. Headed by former Chief Justice Earl War n' Peace, the commission issued a report.

The report said that GW did not appear in "The Greatest Game of All Time." It was all a hoax. Now each of you can go back and take the red block of words that formerly appeared on these pages heralding "The Game."

That's right, take the clippings and mail them back. Let 'em know you're not going to take it anymore. Send the shreds to the Smith Center and make sure to say how disappointed you are.

Don't worry anyone, all is not lost. I have a solution. To satisfy our buttoned-down, conservative selves, let's all pile into a double decker bus and ride over to the Marvin Center. (I know it's not that far, but it's the thought that counts - at least that's what I think.)

Once we get there - we'll all race up to the fourth floor and go to an SA senate meeting. We'll campout for good seats, even if it's cold. Then we'll gather cheerleaders and the band, too (they'll be back by then).

We'll cheer our asses off, sing the fight song 3,334,532 times and stand the whole time. We'll never sit - not even during halftime. We'll root, root, root for the home team, if they don't win it's a shame. Just buy me some peanuts and Apple Jacks, I don't care if the honor code does suck.

And the hooooommmmmee of the ... braaaaavvvvvve!
Play ball!

Stay Calm, Everybody Just Stay Calm

Giant killer bees attacked the Smiff Center Friday, causing superhero Dike Pelter to swing into action.

Pelter immediately ducked into the women's bathroom and put on tights and a cape to save his beleaguered complex. It was a divine display of heroic intervention.

"The Smiff Center will never die, just multiply," Pelter said. However, when the bees heard the word "multiply," they mated with all the local bees. Now they're all killer bees.

"Oh no," Pelter shouted, without any emotion whatsoever, as he watched thousands of bees attack a cheerleader.

The zebrew crew raced into action to save their temple. Although they shattered the plate glass windows on the upper level, they managed to rescue Pelter and drive the bees all the way to Cole Field House.

The entire episode was made into a TV movie called "Deadly Invasion: The Killer Bee Nightmare," starring Striker, of Airplane! fame.

Get To Work, Maggots

The GeeDub J. Crew team has been burdened with the responsibility of erecting the Wealth and Hellness Center, head sadist Pall Dicklins decreed Saturday.

Dicklins said the six or seven years of hard labor entailed in the building of the center - which the crew team will be barred from using - is just one minuscule part of a huge program of torturous toil comparable to the Civilian Conservation Corps.

"All these rowers are a bunch of lazy, good-for-nothing launch bunnies," Satan's lackey said as he watched them straggle in from a quick 112-mile warm-up jog down to Richmond and back. "I'm sick and tired of their hystemics, whatever the hell that means."

The rowers' acts of supreme listlessness this year include building their own boats, digging graves for their own fallen teammates, selling rubbery hot dogs at basketball games, running to the National Zoo to clean the elephants' cages and helping the men's basketball team's 26 managers carry equipment to the buses.

Slaves of the devil, here? I've got to warn the others

BY YUL IRREGULARITY AND JIM NAUSEAM

INCOHERENT IRATE RABBLERUSERS

I don't want to go off on a rant here, but I have finally found irrefutable evidence that the head coach of the Jorgetown LaToyas, Jon Tompson, is actually Beelzebub and intends to use his demon-spawn Ellen Everson to conquer the globe.

Unlike our own lovable chrome-domed Mick Jaggervis, who proved his angelic ways this past season by bitch-slapping that pansy Mon Calamari into submission before President Clifton and his daughter Smellsea, Tompson has proven time and time again that he is a force for evil and likes to dress up in leiderhosen.

Mark my words, or the Wizard's Words, in this GW Columnial that I have Title(d) IX that I will reach deep into my Bowels Of Knowledge and prove that Tompson is devising a way for the Satanic LaToyas to overtake the Big Yeast Conference and cause mass suicides by preventing the use of points at the Smith Center and denying GW students their last outlet for Coca-Cola. This is just like "Damn Yankees," except it's in basketball, and Alexander Koul has yet to break out into a Belorussian chorus of "You've Gotta Have Heart."

Apparently, there was a Satanic ritual or something on the University of Tennessee campus. I

"You know, I just can't get over the feeling that erging until you keel over and die won't be enough to beat those high school teams at the Charlie Butt Skuller regatta next season," Dicklins said. "I love to work their asses off ... why do you think they all scrape pennies together to buy those neoprene jackets with the long butt flaps?"

However, the Unidiversity will not fund the project, although the men's basketball team will supply the bricks. The snub is indicative of crew's lowly status on the GW campus, despite the fact that a recent census showed that approximately eight of 10 students at GeeDub are on the crew team.

Hell, no! We won't go to Barcroft!

The GW baseball team finally completed its much anticipated labor move late last night, walking off the job and announcing its intent to strike.

Guido Guiiuliania, the team's spokesman, cited lack of a playing field anywhere near the northern hemisphere, too few transfers from USC and the fact that Forger of Grades She-Man Hobag made "Wild" Billy Blunderson graduate despite the fact that he had not attended a class in his seven seasons with the Colonials. In addition, he said the team had no balls.

The move left head coach Papa Smurfy blue in the face. He said he had no idea this move was coming, even though he had been warned 1,239 times since January.

"I don't know," he said. "I just don't know."

The GW aesthetics and re-creations department said it intends to use scab players to complete the season.

"The ones we got now aren't too good anyways," Athletic Supporter Jock Kvdwyzzcvc said. "We was always losing and getting beat," he added, a cigar puffing from all orifices.

Dr. Jack added that if GW can't harvest enough scabs from its farm system in Pakistan, he could probably scare up enough monkeys to field a fair-to-middlin' team. "Ya know, dem little monkeys might be jus' da thing. I mean, the baseball team already shits in da dorm hallways and on da good peoples' porches around Bahcroft Field. Besides, monkeys is soooo funny."

-Tweedle Dreidle and Tweedle "Big" Dummy

did a little research (in my own imagination) and found out that "LaToyas" is ancient Parmesan for "Bunch of Satanists on the University of Tennessee Campus" and also, the Jorgetown University and convicted Felon REhAbilitation Center (GU FREAC) actually was in Tennessee from 1965 to 1871. Not only that, but remember that the setting for the movie, The Exorcist was the neighborhood of Jorgetown. Coincidence? I think not.

Other basketball coaches agree that Tompson is, if not a hideous projectile vomiting force of evil trying to destroy the world, a really big dummy.

"What he did to basketball is impossible to gauge," said Jole McCrowin', GW women's basketball coach. "And, by the way, sank for coming to the women's game. Here's the $5 I promised you."

Temple coach Lon Cheney was unavailable for comment, because the surging vein in his forehead finally burst and he lapsed into a coma last night. Bill Cosby is still at his bedside, although apparently Cheney has repeatedly muttered, "Tough noogies."

The LaToyas basketball program is like a giant malignant cancerous melanoma growth on the sport, unless it's more like a giant inflammation of the lymph node, or if you prefer, an industrial-strength titanium enema stuck up Dick Vitale's ass.

Squashers win tip, game!!!

BY CLAIRENCE AND K2
HOTSHIT STAFF SCUMBAGS

Crack! Slap! Swish! Squash!! It's a cool sound but an even cooler sport, and it is absolutely on fuego here in Floggin' Bottom. Friday night, the Chuck Eek Smitty Center was overwhelmed with unrestrained, drunken rowdiness as more than 40,000 albino pygmies and Turkish Cypriots came to support the GW men's squash team in its quest to win the 1995 NCAA Squish Championship. The reward: an opportunity to travel to Springfield to meet Sideshow Bob Tewilliger.

The squash team, affectionately known to its fans as "The Buff and Blue Balls," accomplished its dream after an intense, 59-hour match against the University of the College Without Walls Tech, in which two of G Double U's star turtles keeled over in extreme exhaustion.

"Shame about the turtles," royal subject and head squish coach Sir Charles Fauntleroy Endecott Elliott Chadwick XXI said on Friday night. "They were two exemplary transfer students from Maryland."

The first 23 hours of the match were fairly standard, as far as squash goes. Especially when lightly peppered and simmered over a low flame. However, the next 36 hours was when G Double U really showed its talent.

"I thought we were done for when the turtles died," Team Captain Johnny "I don't even know what squash is, I just want to" Wynn said. "Mmmm, I love squash. We're going to celebrate by going to Henry's!"

Athletic Supporter Jack Kvorkian was also pleased with the match. "I'm happy they won," he said. "But what the hell is squash, anyway?"

The most exciting play in the regatta occurred 45,387 hours into the meet and involved Lithuanian exchange student Thomas "Not My Sister Heidi" Fleiss.

He threw a billiard ball into the upper corner of the hockey net while smoking a big fat joint.
